INDEPENDENCE, Mo., April 1st .-

If we were to attempt to describe the predominating feature which would best recommend our fair State to the wide world, we would be t a loss to know which one should engage our attention first. At Brownsville where the great Mineral Sweet Springs are located, we found invalids from every quarter, seeking to recuperate health. asuage the "ills to which human flesh is herr," and find a balm that would sooth sorrow and drive dull care away. Brownville indeed possesses an equal to the "Mill of St. Cline," or the famous fountain of klepton immortal youth, for which Boolbo sought in vain. It is a beautiful town (though lately damaged by fire) and is directly on the line of the contemplated Southwestern Railway. Her citizens are anxiously expecting the road, and will undoubtedly experience a boom from its building. The mineral water is shipped from here in quantities, and Brownville is certain, in the near future, to be the Saratoga of Missouri.

His Fifteenth Year.

L. Phillip, the "star clothing man," has been in business in Mexico for fifteen years, and has proven to be one of the most enterprising, goshead, patriotic men in the city. He is among the first to take hold of anything that will be of any good to the city and community. His success in business is due to the fair and honest way in which it has been conducted. Every man, woman and child in the county knows that he buys and sells more goods in his line each year than any other firm in Central Missouri. This is not all. Phillip can sell goods cheaper than some men can buy them. Why? Because he buys for spot cash, and in this way he gets bottom prices, besides a large "per cent, off for cash." No man should buy until he calls and sees Phillip's stock and gets prices. No trouble to show goods. He keeps gentlemanly and accommodating clerks who take pleasure in showing goods and giving prices. Look out for his mammoth advertisement next week. The "star clothing house" is headquarters.
